The Language Schools

HISTORY
The Middlebury College Language Schools were pioneers in the development of specialized study of Modern Languages in this country. The German School was founded in 1915, followed by the French and Spanish in 1916 and 1917. The Italian School was added in 1932, Russian in 1945, Chinese in 1966, and Japanese in 1970.

The Schools in Europe opened in 1949 with the first session of the School in France in cooperation with the University of Paris. This was followed in 1951 with a similar program in Madrid, after which the Schools in Mainz, Florence and Moscow were established in 1959, 1960 and 1977.

PHILOSOPHY
The Language Schools aim to give thorough training in the language and cultural heritage of the foreign country. Equal attention is given to all areas of instruction, from introductory courses to advanced seminars. Students are welcome to apply for a single summer at any level or as candidates for one of the degree programs to be completed over several summers in Vermont or at one of the Schools Abroad. For those who are currently teaching or who plan a career using foreign languages, the M.A. is conceived as a course of study in itself and not simply as the first half of a doctoral program. The D.M.L. (Doctor of Modern Languages) degree differs from the traditional Ph.D. in its emphasis on the combination of both scholarly and professional training at the college or university level.

PROGRAM
Courses are offered at both the graduate and the undergraduate levels on the Vermont campus during the summer and at the Schools in FRANCE, GERMANY, ITALY, RUSSIA and SPAIN during the academic year.

Summer
Courses for graduate credit in FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, RUSSIAN and SPANISH lead to M.A. and D.M.L. (Doctor of Modern Languages) degrees. Courses for undergraduate and graduate credit provide intensive instruction in CHINESE, FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, JAPANESE, RUSSIAN and SPANISH.

Abroad
Graduate students may continue their courses of study in FRANCE, GERMANY, ITALY, RUSSIA and SPAIN.

Undergraduates may enroll in the Middlebury Junior Programs in FRANCE, GERMANY, ITALY, RUSSIA and SPAIN. In some cases, depending on individual qualifications, a preliminary summer at Middlebury may be required.
ADMISSION

Application to the Schools should be made early. Admission standards are high, but each application is considered individually and all students are placed according to their level of preparation. Acceptance decisions are made throughout the winter and spring months until full enrollment numbers are reached after which all successful applicants are placed on a waiting list.

COURSES OF STUDY AND DEGREE PROGRAMS

The intensive summer program of language study in CHINESE, FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, JAPANESE, RUSSIAN and SPANISH is offered at several levels. It is open to students who wish to improve or refresh their foreign language skills or to gain proficiency in a new language necessary for their professional careers.

Summer courses offering advanced undergraduate or graduate credit are open to students enrolled in degree programs at other institutions who wish to transfer their Middlebury credits to their own degree.

The Junior Program Abroad offers credit towards the B.A. degree to be transferred to the student’s home institution.

The Master of Arts in FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, RUSSIAN and SPANISH requires an approved program of twelve units/courses to be earned over several summers on the Vermont campus or in a combination of study in Vermont and at one of the Middlebury Schools in Florence, Madrid, Mainz, Moscow or Paris.

The Doctor of Modern Languages in FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, RUSSIAN or SPANISH requires an additional twelve units beyond the M.A. The degree may be earned through study on the Vermont campus during the summer and at one of the Schools Abroad during the academic year. More complete details are available on request to the Language Schools Office.
The Summer Program

The Middlebury Language Schools aim to give thorough training in the foreign language and in the life, institutions, literature, history and culture of the foreign country.

Language Pledge: More than sixty years of experience have proven the effectiveness of the Middlebury insistence on using the foreign language both in and out of the classroom. All students are required to sign a formal statement agreeing to use the foreign language as the only medium of communication during the entire session. A modified language pledge is required even of students in the beginning courses.

Life in the Schools: Middlebury's country setting is ideal for summer study. Students live on campus in the dormitories assigned to each School and they take their meals with the faculty and staff of their School. Extracurricular activities include films, concerts, lectures, singing groups, picnics, and various sports such as tennis, swimming, golf, volley ball, and soccer. There are attractive opportunities for hiking in the nearby Green Mountains and for bicycling along the quiet roads of the Champlain Valley.

All students are expected to enroll for the full session and to carry a full academic load. Only under special circumstances will permission be granted for living off-campus or for auditing. The College does not have space for housing members of a student's family, nor can special diets be provided.

Faculty: The Faculty is made up of experienced professors of Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, and Spanish. All are specialists in their field and many come to Middlebury from abroad, thus ensuring in each School the stimulus of fresh contacts with the foreign language and culture.

Curriculum: The undergraduate curriculum is divided into levels, each of which is a full-time program. Students may enroll for credit in only one level at a time. Placement is determined by testing and according to previous study of the language.

The graduate curriculum is made up of a large number of individual courses in linguistics, literature, the social sciences, art history and foreign language pedagogy. A normal load for each student is three courses per summer, to be selected in consultation with the Director or Dean. First-year students are placed in courses most appropriate to their linguistic proficiency at the time of registration. Some students may be required to take one or more courses at the advanced undergraduate level before beginning a full load of graduate work.

Dates and Fees: All Schools are in session during June, July and August for periods ranging from six to nine weeks. Fees for tuition, room and board vary according to the length of the session. Complete information on Dates and Fees is included on page 58 of this catalogue.

Credits: Courses for undergraduate credit in French, German, Italian and Spanish award six credits for each level. Courses in the nine-week session of Chinese, Japanese and Russian award ten credits for each level.

Courses for graduate credit in French, German, Italian and Spanish and all six-week courses in Russian award two credits or one unit as defined on page 57 of this catalogue.
The 1978 session: Planning for each session of the Language Schools begins many months in advance in order to provide students with as much information as possible on the following year's faculty and courses. Sometimes it is necessary to make late changes if unforeseen problems occur. However, full details are included in the registration materials of each School sent to all accepted students in the spring.

Students wishing to take courses for undergraduate credit should read the descriptions carefully before completing the application form. Graduate students will be provided with similar descriptions in the Registration Bulletins.

NOTE: Seven and nine-week courses are identified in the course listings in this catalogue as follows: † seven weeks, ‡ nine weeks. The six-week sessions are uncoded. Courses in brackets [ ] are part of the standard M.A. curriculum but will not be offered in 1978.

CS 101-102  Beginning Chinese

An intensive introduction to Mandarin, this course begins with a four-day concentrated study of Mandarin phonetics and the Gwoyeu Romatzyh tonal-spelling system of romanization. Chinese characters are also introduced in the first week, along with simple vocabulary items for daily use. Thereafter, for the next six and a half weeks, students concentrate on the first ten lessons of the Mandarin Primer, liberally supplemented with sentence pattern drills and exercises prepared at Middlebury. A complete series of audio tapes, including vocabulary and pattern drills, prepared at Middlebury and Harvard, accompanies each lesson. In addition to the audio tapes, videotapes of these first ten lessons, prepared at Middlebury with the faculty as actors, will be used. The video image is extremely effective in helping the student to internalize the new language patterns. For the last week and a half, Elementary Chinese (Peking, 1972) is used to introduce simplified characters and the Pinyin system of romanization. Other romanization systems will also be briefly presented.
Each day the class meets as a whole for two hours for the introduction and explanation of new material and for introductory pattern practice, and then it divides into small sections (5-8 students) for two hours of drill. Each student receives two fifteen-minute periods of private tutorial per week. Preparation, including work in the language laboratory, usually requires about five hours of study each day.

The medium of instruction gradually shifts from English to Chinese, and students are encouraged to speak less and less English outside class. By the end of the session students have a good command of basic grammatical construction, a working vocabulary of over a thousand words, and an active knowledge of about 600 characters from memory.

CS 201-202  Intermediate Chinese

While continuing the audio-lingual approach, this course also emphasizes the reading of Chinese character texts (both standard and simplified characters). The course will be divided into two parts. The first half will concentrate on consolidating the foundations which the students have begun to build in their first year courses (i.e., pronunciation, grammar, character writing) and further work on sentence structure and vocabulary. This will be done through a study of selections from two texts: Chinese Reader (I and II) and Lecture on Chinese Culture. The second half of the course will use no textbook. Instead, the student will shift to reading real Chinese in the form of modern essays, short stories and newspaper articles. A Chinese movie on videotape will also be used, in conjunction with its study-manual containing the screenplay, vocabulary and other supplementary materials. In addition to viewing the movie, students will study the screenplay as a text. The course will be conducted primarily in Chinese and is open to students who have completed first-year Chinese. We realize that students come from a variety of programs with differing emphases, with the result that students may be more proficient in one aspect of language learning, for instance speaking, and less in others, such as writing. An effort will be made in the first half of the course to bring the students to a common standard by dividing the class into sections according to special need. By the end of the course students will be able to speak with some fluency on conversational topics, to write short compositions and to read newspapers and articles by modern authors with the aid of a dictionary.

Assignments include: translations, composition, sentence exercises and the use of Chinese to explain the meanings of idioms and phrases. Daily work outside of class, including time spent in the language laboratory, requires approximately five hours.

CS 301-302  Advanced Chinese (Modern Chinese)

This course aims at further development of overall language proficiency through extensive reading of modern texts selected from a wide range of styles and genres. Readings include: 1) essays on academic subjects; 2) modern vernacular literature: essays, short stories, and plays as well as the screenplay of a Chinese movie which will then be viewed on videotape; 3) contemporary materials: political writings from the People's Republic of China and from newspapers. Classes are conducted entirely in Chinese. Individual laboratory exercises are required daily.
In addition to the 15 class hours weekly, students are also occupied approximately five hours daily with vocabulary review, sentence patterns and translation, preparation of class materials, listening to lesson tapes, recorded dictation exercises, individual meetings with teachers, preparing for quizzes, and composition writing.

CS 401-402 Classical Chinese

An introduction to classical Chinese, this course is open to students who have no previous training in classical Chinese but who have completed a minimum of two years of modern Chinese. The course is conducted in Chinese. While the prime emphasis of the course is training in the reading of classical Chinese, the method of instruction seeks simultaneously to maintain the students' proficiency in modern Chinese. Laboratory tapes accompany all the lessons as an aid to assimilation of the texts.

Assignments include: 1) translation from classical into modern Chinese, and vice versa; 2) grammatical practice (usage of particles and analysis of sentence structure); 3) written exercises in both classical and modern Chinese.

CS 501-502 Readings in Chinese Culture

The course will be divided into units of two or three weeks in length, each focusing on a broad topic or a particular period of history; periods and topics in history, literature, and the social sciences will be selected to meet students' interests and needs.

Designed for advanced graduate and undergraduate students with at least three or more years of Chinese and preferably with an elementary knowledge of classical Chinese, the course will be conducted exclusively in Chinese. As the course is still essentially a language course, emphasis will be placed upon bringing students' writing, speaking, and reading skills to a high level. Particular emphasis on the development of writing ability will be achieved through completion of weekly essays which will be corrected and explicated in individual diagnostic sessions.

Life in the School: Apart from the formal work of the school, there are opportunities for students to become introduced to a number of facets of Chinese culture. There are films, both from Taiwan and the People's Republic, guest lectures—both in Chinese and English—and demonstrations of Chinese music. In the past, students have used their spare time to study calligraphy, Chinese cooking, Chinese music, and t'ai-chi ch'uan. One of the high points of the session has been "China Night," when students both write and produce Chinese plays and skits, or take part in musical performances. There has been also an active participation in athletics, such as volleyball and tennis, as well as picnics and other outings. Such activities help greatly to ease the pressures of a long, intensive session, and over the years have become an important part of the life of the school.

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

FR 101-102  Beginning French†
An introduction to the phonetic, syntactic and semantic system of the French language as a means toward elementary oral and written communication in a French-speaking community. Class activities are grouped in three disciplines: grammar, oral practice and writing composition, although these activities should not be considered as necessarily sequential. Reading is introduced as soon as possible coupled with intensive use of the language laboratory. This course is normally reserved for students with previous study of a foreign language. Acceptances to this level will be announced in April.

FR 201-202  Intermediate French†
A continuation of FR 101-102. Active and systematic review of grammatical structures and problems. Greater emphasis will be placed on reading and writing. At the end of this course students should be able to read a contemporary text of moderate difficulty, and to express their opinions about it in phonetically accurate French and short critical papers. Specialized vocabulary needs (technical, philosophical, legal, etc.) cannot be satisfied, but individualized readings may be directed by the available staff in addition to normal required preparations.

FR 301-302 and FR 401-402  Advanced French†
At the advanced levels, students are assigned to sections and levels according to their performance on the placement test given at the beginning of the session. The program is organized by specific skills: Oral Comprehension and Production; Structures of French Vocabulary and Grammar; Written French.

Students who perform particularly well on the placement test will be allowed to enroll in a course in one of the following areas:

- FR 430  Introduction to Contemporary France†
- FR 444  The Political Right and the Left from 1815 to 1978†
- FR 448  The Geography of France†
- FR 455  Nineteenth Century Art: Neo-Classicism, Realism and Impressionism†

FR 491  Introduction to Textual Analysis†

Work in these courses is comprised of attendance at graduate lectures plus section work specially adapted to the student's level and competence in both French and the discipline involved. We hope to offer all of these courses, but the final program will necessarily depend on the number of interested and qualified students.

Stage de Civilisation Française

Each summer since 1974, the French School has offered a two-week Stage, or workshop, in French civilization designed to afford interested teachers the opportunity to become reacquainted with the field by both updating their knowledge and pursuing a number of questions in depth.

The Stage is co-sponsored by the Services Culturels Français, and the animateurs in the last two years have included such well-known French personalities as Yves Berger, author and literary editor at Grasset; René Rémond, historian and president of Université de Paris X-Nanterre; Jean-Marie Domenach, former director of Esprit; and Claude du Granrut, secretary general of the comité du travail féminin, Ministère du Travail.

The Stage takes place during the six-week session, and is therefore subject to the total immersion conditions and French-only language pledge of the French School; all of the French School's activities are open to participants in the workshop.

The dates of the Stage are July 9 to July 21, and the fees as follows: tuition, $200; room, $50; board, $100. For further information, contact the French School office, Middlebury College.

Curriculum and Degree Requirements: M.A. candidates must demonstrate proficiency, either through designated course work or by testing, in phonetics and composition. They must also take at least one course in language analysis, two in civilization, and three in literature. Courses in professional preparation are strongly recommended for anyone already teaching or planning to teach, and are required of students planning to request a recommendation for teaching.

All new graduate students will take placement tests on arrival: one in written French (grammar/composition) and one in phonetics. The results of the tests will determine which courses the students should elect for credit. In order for a student to be exempted in any of these areas, he or she must have attained the level of FR 502 (Patterns of Conversational French), FR 504 (Pronunciation of Contemporary French); FR 511 (Applied Grammar) and FR 611 (Composition).

Life in the School: The French School prides itself on offering not only a full academic program, but an intensive extra-curricular one as well. A theater atelier has always been a special feature of the School: both students and professors are given the opportunity to act in or design sets for classical, modern, and light theater pieces. The French film series gives everyone an opportunity to see the latest in cinema, and to strengthen aural comprehension. Evening lectures and concerts provide opportunities to become acquainted with other aspects of French culture. The dining room serves as a place where one can engage in relaxed conversation in French.

The alumni organization of the French School, Amicale de Middlebury, provides a certain number of scholarships for the French Summer School and the Graduate Program in France. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of financial need and academic excellence.

Amicale de Middlebury, an association of alumni, professors, students and friends of the French School, maintains the spirit of fellowship and comradeship among all those who have been associated with the School. Each summer there is an alumni weekend at which time former students and faculty are invited to Middlebury to participate in lectures, dinners, and the on-going activities of the session. Newsletters are sent periodically to keep alumni up to date on the activities of the French School.

Program of Studies

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

GN 101-102  Elementary German† Schneider, Kenna and Staff

Daily activities include four hours of classroom instruction plus an hour of additional work in the language laboratory. The program consists of discussions, drills in grammar and phonetics, and laboratory. Drilling is done in groups of about ten students. The program covers major aspects of contemporary German. Throughout the program audio-visual materials are used to introduce the students to selected aspects of German art and architecture, geography, history, and political life. Reading materials are introduced in the fourth week.

GN 201-202 Intermediate German† Schneider, Richter and Staff

Daily activities include four hours of classroom instruction plus additional work in the language laboratory. The course begins with a comprehensive grammar review. In addition to the two areas of Grammar, Composition-Conversation, students will select two modules per each half of the term. Modules include: Perspectives on Modern Germany; Grammar in a Literary Context; The Detective Story; From Language to Literature; Selections from Max Frisch; Selections from Thomas Mann; Press Readings; Phonetics. Advanced students may be given permission to select one module per each half of the term from the modules offered in German 301-302. This course will significantly increase the student's fluency in spoken German and facility in reading and writing. Audio-visual materials are used to extend communicative skills and comprehension.

GN 301-302 Advanced German† Schneider, Bubser and Staff

Daily activities normally include four hours of classroom instruction. All students are required to take Advanced Grammar and Vocabulary Building and Advanced Composition-Conversation. Beginning with the second week, each student will select an additional two modules for each half of the term. Modules offered include: Translation Workshop; Kafka; Culture and Civilization; Advanced Reading: Thomas Mann and Bertolt Brecht; Phonetics. A Theater Workshop option will be offered as a six-week course in lieu of one module for each half term.

GN 401-402 Advanced Upper Level German† Schneider, Teschauer and Staff

Daily activities normally include four hours of classroom instruction. All students are required to take “Special Problems in Grammar and Syntax and Composition-Conversation.” Beginning with the second week, students will design the remainder of the program according to their linguistic abilities and academic interests. Some of the possible combinations are: two 3-week modules from GN 301-302 per each half of the term; one 3-week module per each half of the term plus an introductory undergraduate course on Literary Scholarship (see GN 601); two courses on the graduate level, e.g., history, music, or commercial German.

GRADUATE COURSES

Qualified undergraduates may take courses at the 600 and 700 levels with the permission of the Director and the Instructor.

Language Practice and Analysis

Methodology

GN 691  Methods of Teaching German as a Foreign Language  Neuse
[GN 693  Methods of Teaching Literature]
Curriculum: The courses listed above are in two general categories. Courses numbered 600-699 are part of the Grundstudium and include the basic courses in language, literary analysis, culture and pedagogy required of all M.A. candidates. Courses in the range 700-899 are in the Aufbaustudium.

The German School uses five modes of instruction. Introductory courses require two papers of three to four pages written outside class, and two critical essays written in class. Courses require short oral reports based on notes rather than research papers as well as mid-term and final examinations. Proseminars require three papers of three to four pages each, written outside class. Seminars require one long paper, not to exceed 20 pages. Workshops require participation in a stage production in addition to classroom work.

Students normally take three courses, including at least one literature or civilization course. Advisors will assist students in selecting courses and designing programs of study. All new students must take the placement test before registering for courses and are placed into courses according to their proficiency.

Degree Requirements: The following courses are required for the M.A. degree in the German School: GN 601 Introduction to Literary Scholarship; GN 611 Advanced Language Practice; GN 620 Phonetics; either GN 621 Introduction to the Linguistics of German or GN 622 Diachronic Linguistics; one of the courses in German area studies including Landeskunde, history or economics; one of the following methods courses: GN 691 Methods of Teaching German; GN 693 Methods of Teaching Literature; GN 695 Methodology of Landeskunde; and one proseminar in literature.

M.A. candidates who have completed GN 610 Oral Practice or GN 612 Stylistics need not take GN 611 Advanced Language Practice.

Candidates may concentrate the remaining five courses in one or two areas: literature, linguistics or civilization. One of them must be a seminar, which may be taken as soon as the second summer, and preferably not later than the third. GN 601 is a prerequisite for admission to a seminar. Students normally take a proseminar and a seminar, in that sequence.

With the Director's permission and the instructor's consent, a course of the 700 level may be taken as a seminar to fulfill the degree requirement.

With the Director's permission, GN 611 Advanced Language Practice may be waived on the basis of demonstrated proficiency to allow the student to take another course.

Of the twelve courses required for the M.A., nine courses (including the seminar) must be earned in residence. Up to three courses may be taken elsewhere and transferred toward the Middlebury degree. Candidates must obtain prior approval from the Director or the Dean.

Students planning to earn the M.A. through the School in Germany must take both GN 601 Introduction to Literary Scholarship and one proseminar or seminar as well as a third course of their own choosing.
Life in the School: Student and faculty participation in all activities helps create the special atmosphere of the Middlebury German School. The German language can be heard and spoken, practiced and learned, not only in the classroom, but also in the activities — sometimes organized, sometimes informal — outside class hours. Volleyball, soccer, tennis tournaments and individual sports as well as picnics and other social events provide variety and diversion.

The academic program of the German School is enriched by various activities and performances. Max Kade Professors Manfred Dick and Eckhard Heftrich will give special lectures on literature-related topics. Films for 1978 include a series of Expressionist films, with critical introductions by Professor Manfred Brauneck. Theatrical activities planned include Professor Brauneck’s Theater Workshop, which will present Ödön von Horvath’s Kasimir und Karoline, a reading by the German School faculty of Bertolt Brecht’s Herr Puntila und sein Knecht Matti as well as a special cabaret performance by Eva and Herbert Nelson. Musical activities planned for 1978 include piano recitals by Hanns Steger of Regensburg and an extracurricular music workshop conducted by Claudia von Canon. Following the model of the Haussmusik tradition, students and faculty participating in the workshop perform together instrumental and vocal music dating from 1500 to 1800. The repertoire includes pieces by Heinrich Issac, Hassler, Peuerl, Krieger, and Telemann. Professor von Canon is planning two concerts. Students are encouraged to bring their musical instruments.

Financial Aid: As in the past, the German School hopes to be able to award scholarships made available by the Federal Republic of Germany for study during the summer program.

All students enrolled in the graduate program of the German School and planning to study with the Middlebury program in Mainz, are eligible to apply for graduate fellowships for academic year study in Mainz at the beginning of the summer session.

Each year one student is awarded the Middlebury-Mainz fellowship made available by the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität in Mainz. In addition, the German Academic Exchange Service (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst — DAAD) offers two to four fellowships to participants in the Middlebury-Mainz program. Each fellowship provides a stipend for living expenses while the student is in Germany and is valued at approximately DM 5000. In selecting the student to be awarded the Middlebury-Mainz fellowship and the students to be nominated for the DAAD fellowships, the summer faculty considers not only the candidates’ record in German courses taken elsewhere, but also especially their performance in the German School summer courses. The recipient of the Middlebury-Mainz fellowship is announced in late July, and the DAAD informs candidates of its decision in late August.

For additional information on financial aid for the summer program and the school abroad, please refer to pages 59 and 62.

FIDES: All students are invited to join FIDES (Freunde der Deutschen Schule), the alumni organization of the German School. More information will be available during the summer.

Program of Studies

IT 151-152 Elementary Italian† Faustini, Vaglio (Coordinator)

Designed to introduce the student to the Italian Language and to provide a foundation in both spoken and written Italian. The approach to the language permits comprehensive coverage of the basic structures and vocabulary of contemporary Italian. Filmstrips and taped dialogues create a culturally authentic environment in the classroom and provide emphasis on pronunciation, intonation and aural comprehension. The exclusive use of Italian in dialogue situations and vocabulary building encourages the student to develop skills in a personalized context. Short reading selections are introduced from contemporary works and discussions based on these enlarge the student's view of Italian life and culture. The language laboratory and television facilities are important elements of the course.

IT 251-252
Intermediate Italian†
Boynton, Santiago
Review of the structure and vocabulary of contemporary Italian. Conversation, compositions, oral reports help to increase fluency and naturalness as well as prepare the groundwork for a more sophisticated use of the language in spoken and written contexts. Integral to the course will be instruction in phonetics and use of the language laboratory.

IT 301
Advanced Italian — Techniques of Self-Expression, Oral and Written†
R. Ascari
At the advanced level the program is organized by specific skills: grammar and vocabulary, written and spoken Italian. There is extensive practice in the use of the language through compositions and exercises with special attention given to the more involved points of grammar as well as through oral work and careful analysis of phonetics. The aim of this course is to expand the student's knowledge of Italian vocabulary and grammar, to introduce the stylistics of the written language, and to perfect the ability of the student to express himself with emphasis on precision, variety and vocabulary acquisition.

IT 354
Modern Italian Writers: An Introduction to the Study of Italian Literature†
Tamburri
An advanced language and literature course designed to perfect skills in literary analysis and critical writing. The course work will be based on the reading of a number of major Italian literary figures chosen to introduce the genre, themes and terms of literature. Short critical essays will complement the reading and provide the student with practice in writing.

Curriculum and Degree Requirements: Candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Italian must fulfill the following distribution requirements: One language course at the 500 level, the stylistics course, one linguistics course, four literature courses, two civilization courses, a methods course (for candidates seeking a Middlebury recommendation to teach). The Stylistics course may be taken twice for credit since the material varies each year.

At registration, graduate students consult with the Director to choose courses which can help most in improving control of the language and/or relate best to a comprehensive program of study, particularly if the student is a candidate for a Middlebury College advanced degree.

Life in the School: The life of the School is enriched by lectures, readings, social gatherings and choral singing. Each year in the fourth week of the session a student production of an Italian play is given in Wright Theater. Picnics, tennis, "bocce," volleyball, soccer, and hiking afford pleasant relaxation.

Grateful acknowledgement is made of the following scholarships, made available through the generosity of friends of the School:

The Luke and Anna Nolfi Scholarship.
The AMISA Scholarships, given by the Association of Italian School Alumni.

Membership in the Association of Middlebury Italian School Alumni (AMISA) is open to students, alumni, faculty members and friends of the School. The aims of the Association are "to encourage and advance, culturally and materially, the Italian School," to keep its members informed of the School activities and students, and to maintain the spirit of cordiality which the members associate with the Italian School. The nominal yearly dues are used almost exclusively for scholarships. The Association has also made several gifts of books to Middlebury College through the Italian School. The School is extremely grateful to AMISA for the tangible proof it has so often given of its warm support for the Middlebury program of Italian studies.

In addition to its annual winter meeting the Association holds a summer reunion on the Middlebury campus, and encourages the scheduling of regional meetings by interested members. AMISA will hold its 28th annual summer meeting at Middlebury in July, 1978.

Program of Studies

JA 101-102  Elementary Japanese
The course aims to teach the basic grammatical structure and vocabulary of modern colloquial Japanese (Tokyo speech) through aural-oral drills and exercises. Sufficient written materials will be added by gradually introducing kana and kanji. Audio-visual materials will aid students in learning the language in a socio-cultural context, and encourage them in free conversation. Homework assignments consist of: 1) listening to and practice on tapes (of primary importance); 2) writing short sentences using kanji and kana based on grammatical points introduced in class, and 3) a total of four or five short compositions in order to improve basic language skills. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

Instruction is given in English at the beginning, but the medium will be shifted to Japanese as the course advances; the maximum use of Japanese is expected.

At the end of the session, students should have mastered the basic grammatical structure of modern colloquial Japanese, with an active vocabulary of approximately 1500 words, and a good command of kana and at least 200 kanji. They should be able to carry on basic daily conversation reasonably well, and should have a good grasp of the socio-cultural background of modern Japanese.

JA 201-202  Intermediate Japanese
This course is designed to help students acquire a thorough mastery of modern Japanese (Standard Tokyo speech) through review and reinforcement of major grammatical items which appeared in introductory texts such as Jorden's Beginning Japanese (see JA 101-102). It also seeks to give students a reasonable control of more advanced vocabulary through aural-oral drills, readings, and written exercises.

Although increasing emphasis will be placed on reading and writing, aural-oral practice will continue to constitute an integral part of the course, and almost all class work will be conducted in Japanese. The use of special audio and visual tapes in addition to regular lesson tapes at certain stages of the course will make it possible for students to learn how Japanese is used in various social and cultural contexts so that they themselves may be able to use the language in actual conversational situations.

Homework will be assigned on a regular basis giving the students further practice in speaking and hearing as well as in the reinforcement of vocabulary, kanji, and grammar. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

By the end of the summer program, students should have a good knowledge of modern Japanese grammar, improved fluency in daily conversation, skill in the use of basic reference materials, the ability to read and write approximately 850 kanji, and the ability to write short essays. Students will also be encouraged to do as much collateral reading as possible in English, in order to enhance their understanding of the cultural background of modern Japanese.

JA 301-302  Advanced Japanese

The course aims to further students' reading ability, including speed, especially in modern Japanese expository writing. Also, the course is designed to advance students' skills in using more sophisticated vocabulary through oral discussion and composition. The readings for the course cover a wide range of topics: history, social sciences, essays and novels. Students will be exposed to readings in journalese. Homework assignments are aimed at the improvement of speech skills and reading speed and the reinforcement of vocabulary and idiomatic structure. Also, three compositions and one substantial translation of a material chosen by the student are required. These are intended to: 1) improve the students' command of grammar and vocabulary; 2) develop translation techniques. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

Expanded aural-oral practice includes extensive use of Japanese radio and television programs on tapes.

By the end of the session, students should be able to read modern Japanese materials with reasonable speed, to handle various reference materials with dexterity, and to read at least all tooyoo kanji (1850), and to write approximately 1000. Students should be able to carry on daily conversations with less difficulty. In addition, they will be encouraged to read books on Japanese studies in English in order to increase their understanding of the socio-cultural background and conditions of contemporary Japan.

JA 401-402  Advanced Readings and Seminar in Japanese Culture

This course is designed for advanced graduate and undergraduate students in Japanese. The prerequisite is at least three or more years of study of modern Japanese. The course will employ a thematic approach, i.e., all readings are coordinated around a specially selected topic, e.g., Language and Culture; The Meiji Restoration; Modernization of Japan. Students will read materials in various disciplines related to the theme and discuss them under guidance. The course also gives individualized instruction in which each student will select a material of his or her own choice and have an individual conference with the instructor for one half hour every other day. In order to improve the student's aural-oral skills, the course will make extensive use of Japanese radio and television programs.

The course will be conducted exclusively in Japanese. It will demand a high level of proficiency in all four language skills and aims toward improving them. New emphasis will be placed on the development of writing ability, the students are expected to write four or five long essays which will be corrected and explicated in individual diagnostic sessions. They will be expected to help students on lower levels of their study.

By the end of the session, students should have greater fluency in daily conversation and an increased ability to discuss academic subjects. Students will also be urged to do as much collateral reading as possible in Japanese newspapers and weekly magazines. Daily work outside the class requires an average of four to six hours.

Life in the School: The main concern of the Japanese School is to teach Japanese and to provide opportunities outside the classroom for the student to become better acquainted with certain features of Japanese culture. Thus the school calendar makes room for a schedule of Japanese films, lectures by visiting scholars, and such things as demonstrations of Japanese music, calligraphy, the tea ceremony, and ikebana. In addition, there are opportunities for informal participation in athletics, as well as picnics and other outings.

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

RU 101-102  Beginning Russian†  Beyer and Staff
This course develops all four skills (listening, speaking, reading and writing) as well as giving a firm foundation for understanding Russian word formation. At the end of the course students have an active vocabulary of about 1,000 words. Almost all major points of grammar are covered.

RU 201-202  Intermediate (Second-Year) Russian†  A. Baker and Staff
This course contains a thorough review and expands the students' understanding of Russian grammar, stressing continued development of all four skills. Special attention is paid to unprefixed verbs of motion and to the reading of contemporary texts.

RU 301-302  Advanced Intermediate (Third-Year) Russian†  Wertz and Staff
This course includes a thorough review of grammar and phonetics. It treats at some length some points that may have been presented only in a rudimentary way in intermediate Russian, such as verbal aspect and verbs of motion. The main emphasis is on contemporary conversational Russian.

RU 303  Intermediate Conversation  Staff
This course is for students who have a good command of basic grammar but who need to develop ease and assurance in oral self-expression and an active practical vocabulary.

RU 305  Practical Phonetics and Diction  Staff
This study of Russian phonetics stresses correct pronunciation and intonation.

RU 403  Advanced Conversation  Staff
This course is for students with good active control of grammar and with considerable fluency in Russian who need additional intensive oral practice and training in self-expression.

RU 405  Advanced Grammar and Syntax  Staff
Students who have a strong active control of the fundamentals of Russian grammar study some of the more complex points of grammar and syntax.

Graduate Courses Open to Advanced Undergraduates

RU 503  Advanced Oral Self-Expression  Staff
RU 505  Advanced Written Self-Expression  Visson
RU 596  Translation Workshop  Capaldo
RU 601  Stylistics I  Grebenschikov
RU 612  Advanced Phonetics  Staff
RU 631  History of Russian Art  Klimoff
Curriculum and Degree Requirements: Students enrolled in the nine-week session take only one intensive course which meets 4-5 hours per day. Students in the six-week session normally take three courses. Graduate students may, with the Director's permission, take four courses after successfully completing one summer in the School. (An extra course fee of $200 will be charged for a fourth course in the six-week session.) A degree candidate may take less than a normal course load if he or she needs fewer than three courses to complete degree requirements.

No student will be accepted for study in graduate-level courses until he or she has demonstrated satisfactory proficiency on tests of listening comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. These tests are administered during registration period.

M.A. candidates are required to take at least one seminar course on the Middlebury campus. Candidates for the M.A. degree will be required to attain satisfactory scores on tests of listening comprehension, speaking, reading and writing before the degree will be granted. These tests will be administered on Saturday at the end of the third week of classes. Degree candidates who wish recommendations for teaching positions are required to take course RU 612, Advanced Phonetics, and course RU 591, Methods and Materials of Teaching Russian.

Life in the School: The School endeavors to make everything in the life of the student during his stay contribute as effectively and pleasantly as possible to furthering his mastery of the language. Similarity of aims fosters an esprit de corps, while constant association with instructors at the dining tables, in songs and games, on hikes and picnics, no less than in the classroom, brings intellectual stimulus and added opportunity for advanced language proficiency.

The School believes that extra-curricular activities play an important part in the Middlebury way of mastering languages, and students are expected to participate actively. Picnics, excursions, vecherinki with musical and dramatic entertainments, special lectures by faculty members and Russian films provide ample recreational activity. Evenings are regularly set aside for songs and for learning Russian folk dances. Students are encouraged to bring musical instruments and Russian or instrumental records suitable for dancing and informal vecherinki.

Applications: Students applying for admission to the Russian School are advised to apply as early as possible, since it may be necessary to close applications in late spring due to lack of space in the School.

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

SP 101-102  Beginning Spanish†
A course for beginners, who have had previous experience with foreign language study, and who want to master the basic structures and vocabulary of Spanish. An ordered presentation based on two approaches—the underlying grammatical patterns of language, and language in its situation context—will focus on all four of the language skills: understanding the spoken word, speaking, reading, and writing. Acceptances to this level will be announced in April 1978.

SP 201-202  Intermediate Spanish†
For the student who wants to acquire a more thorough understanding of the fundamentals of Spanish. Equal emphasis will be placed on reading, writing, and speaking the language.

SP 319-320  Advanced Spanish†
A rigorous grammar, composition, and conversation course for students who need further intensive study of the structure of the Spanish language.

SP 430 (530)  Latin American Folklore†
Latin America will serve as the context for the study of folklore. We will examine how folklore manifests itself, the methodology used by folklorists, and the theories prevalent in folkloristics today. The class will study Latin American folk music, folk art and architecture, folk literature, foodways, customs, festivals and ritual in light of Latin America’s cultural development.

In addition there will be a complementary series of short courses for students of Intermediate and Advanced Spanish on topics in Hispanic letters, language, and civilization. Included will be applied phonetics, commercial Spanish, a poetry workshop, topics of Spanish and Latin-American civilization, and the short story.

DM 904  Research Paper (DML applicants only)
Curriculum and Degree Requirements: The number of graduate courses is arranged to indicate level of difficulty. Advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students not admitted to SP 501 are expected to choose courses at the 500 level only. Students admitted to SP 501 may not enroll simultaneously in higher-level language courses.

Courses at the 700 and 800 level are designed for D.M.L. and advanced M.A. candidates. First-year graduate students should normally choose their courses at the 500 and 600 levels.

Requirements for the M.A. degree are as follows:

1) Summer of admission: three courses, including SP 501, Advanced Spanish Language, and SP 560, Literary Theory and Analysis. Admission to or exemption from SP 501 is determined by a placement examination administered by mail. Students admitted to SP 501 will be placed in the most appropriate section at the time of registration. Students not admitted to SP 501 may be required to take one or more courses at the advanced undergraduate level before undertaking a full load of graduate work.

2) Upon successful completion of the first three graduate courses, a student is eligible for admission to official candidacy for the M.A. In exceptional cases, at the discretion of the Spanish School, a student may be required to take a special oral examination to determine if he or she is to be admitted to candidacy.

3) All candidates for the M.A. degree are required to take the following courses: three language courses, one Literary Theory and Analysis course, three literature courses, one Spanish civilization and culture course, one Latin American civilization and culture course. The other courses may be elected. Candidates preparing for a teaching career are advised to take at least one course in the area of professional preparation. Students are advised individually as to the most appropriate course of study to be followed according to their proficiency, experience, and future professional expectations.

4) A firm command of spoken and written Spanish is a requirement for the Master’s Degree.

Life in the School: The Spanish School provides students with an opportunity to immerse themselves in a total Hispanic experience, enriching their classroom exposure to the language, culture and literature with a wide variety of outside activities and events that involve the whole Spanish School community, faculty and students. They may live the language at the dining tables, at picnics, parties, formal and informal singing groups (bring along your musical instruments), in hiking and swimming and generally enjoying—in Spanish—the beautiful Vermont summer. They may enjoy Spanish films, theatrical presentations, lectures by faculty members and guest speakers, and they may look forward to contributing to a Spanish School newspaper.

Two of the scholarships offered in Spanish bear the names of distinguished friends of the School:

The Juan A. Centeno Scholarship: Professor Centeno was Director of the School from 1935-1948.

The Luke and Anna Nolfi Scholarship.
The Schools Abroad

The Middlebury Schools in France, Germany, Italy, Russia and Spain are open to qualified graduate and undergraduate students. Each School is under the supervision of a resident Director appointed by the College to oversee all aspects of the program and to assist students in settling in the foreign city. Courses are taught by professors and distinguished critics and scholars either at the local universities or in special seminars organized for Middlebury College. It is expected that all students will maintain the spirit of the summer language pledge while they are abroad. The academic calendar varies slightly from country to country, but students should plan to leave for Europe in early September in order to be ready for the start of classes later in the month or in early October.

The Junior Program: Qualified juniors from Middlebury College and other institutions take advanced undergraduate courses to be counted towards the B.A. degree. Admission standards are high and preference is given to Middlebury College students for the limited number of available places, but other students are accepted whenever possible. Majors in foreign languages and other disciplines may apply, but it is expected that all will have already reached a level of language proficiency equal to the end of the fifth college semester. In some cases a preliminary summer at Middlebury may be required of juniors who need additional preparation before being allowed to register abroad. In Europe juniors benefit from both the privilege of studying the foreign language and culture in the country itself and also from the close association with the larger graduate programs in each city.

The Graduate Program: After spending the required preliminary summer on the Vermont campus, graduate students may continue their course of study for the M.A. degree in one of the Schools abroad. All are expected to carry a full academic load of courses in the areas of language, literature, and culture and civilization. D.M.L. candidates may elect to fulfill the required period of residency abroad by taking courses for credit in one of the Schools or by auditing classes in preparation for the general examinations. Graduation exercises are held on the Vermont campus in August.
SCHOOL IN FRANCE

Director: The Director for 1978-79 will be named in the spring of 1978. The Director assists students with all official formalities and with the integration into the French academic community and will advise them as to choices of courses.

Headquarters in Paris: The offices of the French School in France are located in Reid Hall, 4 rue de Chevreuse, 75006 (Tel: 320-70-57), a short walk from the Latin Quarter.

Faculty: Courses are taught by faculty members of the University of Paris X—Nanterre, other branches of the University of Paris, and various French Institutes.

Housing: While each student is responsible for securing his own living accommodation, the Middlebury office in Reid Hall maintains a list of student residences, rooms and other lodgings. Juniors should consult the French department about housing during the spring, and graduate students during the summer session.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Juniors enroll for the full academic year in a program of studies designed both to complement courses taken at the home institution and to form a logical link between sophomore and senior years. The first five weeks beginning in early September constitute an intensive preliminary session of language work and an introduction to contemporary France. In October students begin courses from a wide range including art, history, language, linguistics, literature, philosophy, political science, and sociology.

Beginning in January 1978, a special one-semester program will be offered, consisting of a preliminary session in January followed by those courses given at the Institut d'Etudes Politiques or by Middlebury which are available during the second semester. The one-semester program will normally be open to a limited number of Middlebury College students for whom the full-year program would be academically unfeasible.

The Graduate Program: After successfully completing three courses (three units) at the summer session of the French School on the Vermont campus, candidates for the M.A. begin the academic year in France with a special fall program organized by Middlebury in September and October. During this preliminary session, worth one unit, they enroll in two seminars designed to prepare them for advanced university work and to introduce them to the methods and subject areas of the mémoire, a short thesis which is required of all students and which counts for two units toward the M.A.

The program runs approximately from September 8th to June 15th.

During the academic year graduate students earn the remaining eight units toward the twelve required for the M.A. degree. In addition to Middlebury seminars, course work is distributed in the areas of language, phonetics, literature, and culture and civilization at the University of Paris X and the Institut d'Études Politiques. The Director will help each student in the selection of courses and the satisfaction of requirements. A preliminary listing of courses will be made available during the summer session. The following is a list of some of the courses available during 1978-1979.

SCHOOL IN GERMANY

Director: The Director for 1978-79 will be Dr. Ellen Summerfield, Assistant Professor of German, Middlebury College. The Director assists students with all official formalities and with their integration into the German academic community and will also advise them as to choice of courses.

Headquarters in Mainz: The Office of the School is located at Rheinstrasse 42, 65 Mainz (telephone 06131-20059), a fifteen minute bus ride from the university campus. The headquarters also serve as the Director’s residence.

Faculty: All courses are taught by the faculty of the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität in Mainz where Middlebury students are enrolled for the full academic year from October to July.

Housing: Students are responsible for taking care of their own housing needs although the Director can sometimes provide useful tips. There is a special housing office on the university campus in Mainz. Information on university dormitories is available at the Office of the German School on the Vermont campus. Interested students should request application forms as early as possible (by April 15 at the latest).

Financial Aid: For a Middlebury Student who is an American citizen, the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität awards a fellowship of DM 5000 (subject to change, payable in ten monthly installments); applicants with pedagogical experience and some background in English are preferred, since there may be a limited teaching assignment.

In addition, during the course of the summer session, Middlebury designates two to four applicants for DAAD scholarships on a competitive basis according to scholastic ability and need. The living allowance amounts to DM 750 per month.

Additional information on financial aid is included on page 62.
Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Juniors usually go abroad in the early spring and enroll in four or five courses for the Sommersemester in Mainz, which is the equivalent of one semester at Middlebury College. One course must be a literary proseinar and one may be a specially designed course for foreign students at the University. The remaining courses can be in Fachbereich 13 (Germanistik and Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft) or in related Fachbereiche if approved by the individual instructor and the Director. Middlebury accepts applications from undergraduates enrolled at other colleges and universities, but a preliminary summer at the Middlebury campus is required.

The Graduate Program: After successfully completing three courses at the summer session of the German School, M.A. candidates take at least ten courses in Germanistik (and Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft, if desired) in Fachbereich 13 of the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität — five each semester of the total ten. Two courses per year may be in related areas, such as philosophy, history, art history, or music, if the language of instruction is German. With permission, two courses specially designed for foreign students may be counted toward the M.A. A student who passes fewer than four courses in either semester will be asked to withdraw.

A course in a German university is usually a series of lectures or seminars to guide German students in their study and preparation for a final comprehensive examination. The resulting flexibility presents both an opportunity and a danger that must be resolved in careful consultation with the Director. All major lecture courses are augmented by specially arranged Middlebury tutorials, and regular, active student participation is assumed. The tutor's evaluation of the student's performance in these is as important as the final oral examination in the course.

A special advantage of the Mainz program is the Sonderkurs, which is a seminar taught by a German professor for interested Middlebury students. The Sonderkurs gives Middlebury students the opportunity to work directly with the European professor. Past course topics have included: Goethes Faust, Deutsche Prosa nach 1945, Geschichte der Deutschen Lyrik. Two Sonderkurse are usually offered each semester.

The German university system does not use such terms as "course" or "credit." Middlebury College, in granting an American degree, must assign letter grade values to the student's work. The Director is responsible for evaluating the various parts of a student's program, and this decision is final.

Students are required to write papers in two seminars each semester. In all other seminars or lectures, final oral, or in some cases, written examinations are administered by the German instructors. After these examinations are evaluated by the respective instructors, the Middlebury Director converts the German grades to the American grading system.

Students who must find housing should arrive in Mainz by September 20, 1978, and should check in immediately at the School office. All other students should arrive by October 1. The first week in October consists of a required orientation period. Each student must have found suitable living quarters and have registered with the Ausländerpolizei before being allowed to register officially at the Johannes Gutenberg-Universität. Registration (Immatrikulation) in the Fall takes place on a previously announced morning between October 5 and 12.

The Wintersemester extends from about October 17 to February 15 with a ten-day Christmas recess. The Sommersemester usually begins about April 15 and ends about July 15. Students are enrolled for the entire academic year.

The Director will guide each student in the selection of courses, a preliminary listing of which will be available in Middlebury during the preceding summer. Lecture courses, proseminars and seminars on German language, literature, phonetics, Volkskunde and philology are the province of the Deutsches Institut, which is grouped with Seminar für Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft in Fachbereich 13. A maximum of two courses in culture and civilization may be selected from the offerings of other Fachbereiche. A sample list of courses in Fachbereich 13 follows.

SCHOOL IN ITALY

Director: The Director for 1978-79 will be Miss Anna Barsanti, who has taught Art History since 1968 at Middlebury in Florence. Miss Barsanti is tutor of the Fellows at the Fondazione di Studi di Storia dell'Arte “Roberto Longhi” and is also engaged in archives research in Art History for the Consiglio Nazionale Ricerche of Florence.

Headquarters in Florence: The School has its headquarters in the Palazzo Benivieni, Via delle Oche 3. Classes are held there during the Fall Term. The Stylistics course and the tutorials for courses at the University of Florence as well as undergraduate courses in Literature and Language are held at the Sede during the academic year.

Students are expected to keep in close touch with the School’s office (telephone: 215-782), for help and guidance on academic matters, as well as for information of cultural, professional, social or touristic interest.

Visitors to Florence are cordially invited to visit these facilities.

Faculty: The courses in Italian art, history, language, and literature that make up the Fall Term curriculum, as well as the Stylistics course which covers the entire academic year, are taught by instructors engaged by Middlebury College. Once the courses get under way at the University of Florence, Middlebury students will have tutorial help in the University courses in which they are enrolled.

Housing: Students are strongly urged to live with an Italian family. Although each student must make his own arrangements for room and board, the Director will render all possible assistance and will recommend private families who offer comfortable living accommodations to students.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Students who are accepted into the Junior Year program are required to enroll in the Italian School for the session immediately preceding the year of study in Florence. At the Italian School they take three courses, at least one of which must be in language study. In Florence they take the courses that make up the Fall Term curriculum (Art, History, Literature, Language) and four courses for the length of the Italian academic year. They continue with the ongoing Language course, take a literature course prescribed by the Director of Studies, and choose two electives from among the regular course offerings of the University of Florence. Throughout the regular academic year Junior Program students will have tutorial help in all their courses.

In addition to the full-year Junior Program, Middlebury offers a special Fall Semester Program from September through January. During this semester, students take the courses that make up the Fall Term from September through October. They then continue with the ongoing Language course and Literature and Civilization course. In addition, the one-semester junior will be involved in an independent project that terminates in January along with the two Middlebury courses. The one-semester program will be open to a limited number of Middlebury College students and lends itself in particular to students involved in double majors and/or special areas of concentration.
The Graduate Program: Final acceptance into the Graduate Program in Italy normally depends on the satisfactory completion of a session of study at the Italian School. The year in Florence consists of two parts: the Fall Term program of courses commissioned by Middlebury College beginning in mid September and lasting six weeks, and the academic year at the University of Florence from November to June. During the Fall Term all students are required to take the following courses: Art History, Literature, and Stylistics. At the end of the Fall Term there will be a written and/or oral examination in each of these courses.

At the beginning of the academic year at the University of Florence, each student consults with the Director to choose a year-long program of study. Selections are made from the programs of the Facoltà di Lettere e Filosofia and the Facoltà di Magistero at the University of Florence. Four courses constitute a full load. Normally all students continue the Stylistics course begun during the Fall Term, and select three other courses. All students are required to take at least one course in Italian literature, but not more than two.

Other courses are chosen from among the following fields, which are covered regularly at the University of Florence:

- Letteratura italiana
- Letteratura italiana moderna e contemporanea
- Letterature moderne comparate
- Fildogia Romanza
- Dialettologia
- Storia della lingua italiana
- Filologia Dantesca
- Linguistica
- Storia dell’arte
- Storia medievale
- Storia moderna
- Storia contemporanea
- Geografia
SCHOOL IN RUSSIA

In the Fall Semester of 1977 Middlebury College initiated its Russian School in Moscow at the Pushkin Russian Language Institute.

Director: The Director for 1978-79 will be named in the spring of 1978. The Director assists students with all official formalities and with their integration into the Russian academic community.

Faculty: Instruction will be conducted by faculty members of the Pushkin Russian Language Institute.

Housing: Housing will be in triple rooms at the University Hotel, with bath, telephone and study facilities in each room. Students wishing double or single rooms will be subject to a surcharge.

Program of Studies

All students who are not Middlebury College undergraduates will be required to have completed at least Advanced Intermediate Russian (Third Year) in the summer Russian School on the Vermont Campus before acceptance for the program in Moscow will be considered final. This acceptance will depend on the prospective participant having demonstrated acceptable performance in the third-year course (or higher). Credit will be granted at the advanced undergraduate or graduate level toward the Middlebury B.A. and M.A. or for transfer to another institution.

Instruction will be given in groups of 5-7 students and will include phonetics, intonation, grammar and stylistics, and lectures on contemporary Russian and its norms, Russian and Soviet literature, and Soviet society. Twenty-five hours of instruction per week.

Middlebury College reserves the right to withdraw from the program at any time any student who fails to perform at an acceptable level or whose presence in the program might prove to be detrimental in any way.

Total expenses for the semester are expected to be approximately $3,200. This includes tuition, books, room, board in a student dining hall, and round trip transportation between New York and Moscow. Expenses will be higher for students wishing double or single accommodations or who are ineligible for youth fares.

Students interested in applying should request an application form for the Russian School and the Moscow program.
SCHOOL IN SPAIN

Director: The Director for 1978-79 will be named in the spring of 1978. The Director assists students with all official formalities and with their integration into the Spanish academic community and will also advise them as to choice of courses.

Headquarters in Madrid: The office of the Director and all classrooms are located at the Instituto Internacional, Miguel Angel 8 (telephone: 419-81.88).

Faculty: All courses are organized especially by Middlebury College for its own students. They are taught by professors from the University of Madrid and by other distinguished authorities in the fields of letters, history and the arts.

Housing: The College cannot provide housing for graduate students, but the Secretary in Madrid maintains up-to-date lists of families and apartments where Middlebury students have lived in previous years. The Director and the Secretary will do everything possible to help students settle in Madrid before the opening of classes. Undergraduates are assigned housing before they arrive in Madrid.

Program of Studies

The Junior Program: Juniors may enroll for the fall or spring semester or for the full academic year. The program of studies is made up of eight courses as follows:

FIRST SEMESTER: Juniors must take the two undergraduate courses that have been designed specifically for them:

Lengua avanzada
Fondo histórico de España

In addition, they may choose two graduate courses from among those listed below:

Poesía de la Generación del 98
Arquitectura española
Geografía general de España
El folklore español

SECOND SEMESTER: Those juniors who began their studies in Madrid during the First Semester may choose four graduate courses from among those listed below:

Español coloquial
Sintaxis comparada
Grandes autores del Siglo XIX
El cuento hispánico
Teatro español actual
Velázquez, Goya y Picasso
Historia de la música española
Those Juniors who begin their studies in Madrid during the Second Semester must take the undergraduate course designed specifically for them (Lengua avanzada). In addition, they may choose three graduate courses from among those listed above.

In special cases and with permission from the Director, an unusually advanced Junior may be allowed to take a graduate course which is not normally open to Juniors.

During the first two weeks of each semester all new juniors are expected to participate in an orientation program designed to introduce them quickly to life in the Spanish capital and the surrounding area. Visits are arranged between classes to parts of Madrid, and the program usually includes an excursion to one of the nearby small towns such as Chinchón or Navalcarnero. Later in the semester all juniors are invited to join with the graduate students on similar weekend excursions to other parts of Spain.

The Graduate Program: During the required preliminary summer in Middlebury, graduate students normally take three courses. Advanced Spanish Language and Literary Theory and Analysis are required and are usually taken at this time with one other elective course.

In Madrid, they follow a balanced program of five courses (units) in the first semester, and four in the second. The choice depends on academic performance at Middlebury and upon previous studies, needs and interests. Some students, upon authorization of the Director, may write a long paper under the supervision of a faculty adviser. This paper is the equivalent of two courses (units).

Students will not be allowed to register for the School in Spain if their conduct or academic performance during the summer is judged unsatisfactory.

Courses for the fall semester begin in mid September and end with final examinations in late December. After the Christmas vacation the spring semester opens in the third week of January and continues until late May. The resident Director is available to advise students at all times throughout the year, beginning with a series of orientation meetings on the Vermont campus during the summer when questions of registration, transportation, housing and excursions in Spain are discussed at length.

The program of studies varies slightly from year to year, but the following list is representative of the usual courses:
FIRST SEMESTER

Lengua
Temas monográficos de sintaxis comparada Jesús Fernández
Análisis y comentario de textos Laura de los Ríos de García Lorca

General Information
SUMMER

Application: Application materials may be obtained by writing to the Secretary of the appropriate Language School, Sunderland Language Center, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753. Admission is granted on the basis of academic qualifications and the availability of space. There is no general deadline, but students requesting financial aid are advised to apply as early as possible. Completed application materials and the requested financial statement must be received before 15 March 1978 to be considered for the first awards announced on 15 April. Applications will be processed until the start of the sessions in June provided that space and funds are available. A non-refundable fee of $15 must accompany each NEW student's application.

Credits: Courses for undergraduate credit in French, German, Italian, and Spanish award six credits for each level. Courses in the nine-week session of Chinese, Japanese and Russian award ten credits for each level.

Courses for graduate credit in French, German, Italian and Spanish and all six-week courses in Russian award two credits or one unit per course.

A unit consists of 30—45 hours of intensive classroom instruction plus additional daily requirements which may include work in the language laboratory, extensive reading, and written assignments.

Transfer credit: After successful completion of one summer at Middlebury, candidates for the M.A. and D.M.L. degrees may request permission of the Director or Dean to transfer up to three units from another institution. All such units/courses must be taken at the graduate level of an accredited college or university offering graduate credit towards an advanced degree. They should normally be taught in the foreign language in the areas of language and linguistics, culture and civilization, literature, and professional preparation.

All credits and units expire after ten years.

Applications for refund should be submitted to the Director of each School and to the extent granted will be remitted by check from the Comptroller to the person who paid the charges to which the refund is applicable.

To the extent any refund authorized represents in whole or in part the proceeds of a Guaranteed Student Loan, the student may authorize remittance by the College to the lender or holder of the loan of all or any portion of the refund. In this event the student will be given written notice of such disbursement made on his behalf out of the proceeds of the refund.

Veterans Administration (VA) Program: Students eligible for benefits under the Veteran's Readjustment Benefits Act may obtain an application for a Program of Education from their regional VA office. On the basis of the information given on the application, the VA will issue a Certificate of Eligibility which must be presented at the time of registration at Middlebury.

If the student is presently attending another institution he should complete a form requesting a change of place of training. A student who has previously attended Middlebury with veteran's benefits need only reactivate his former Certificate of Eligibility at the time of Registration at Middlebury.

Financial Aid: Limited scholarship and work aid assistance is awarded to qualified students. Selections of those eligible will be made based on demonstrated need. The College assumes a minimum of at least $350 in self-help from each aid applicant. Students should also be prepared to apply for loans from their home-state Guaranteed Loan Programs. Students requesting financial aid must do so as soon as possible. The deadline for the return of the completed Financial Aid Form is 15 March in order to be considered for the first awards announced on 15 April 1978. Applications received after 15 March will be processed and awards will be made up to the start of the session only if funds are still available. A financial aid request card is included with the application materials provided by the individual Language Schools. After 1 January financial aid applications should be completed by those students who submit this card.

Health Services: A full-time physician, assisted by a registered nurse, holds regular office hours in the infirmary, and is on emergency call at all times. This service is free to all full-time students. When a student's illness requires continued medical service, the student assumes all financial obligations. Special prescription diets cannot be provided.

Insurance: The College enrolls all full-time students in a plan of medical reimbursement for the expenses arising from an accident. Maximum reimbursement is $1000 for each accident. The plan is broad in scope and covers all accidents occurring while the Language Schools are in session.

Living Accommodations: Students are assigned to rooms, normally double, in the dormitories of their School. All students take their meals in the School dining hall with faculty and staff members. The College does not have space for housing members of a student's family nor can special diets be provided. Only under special circumstances will students be granted permission to live off-campus.

Transcripts: One official transcript will be issued without charge on written request to Office of Graduate Records, Old Chapel, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont 05753. A fee of $2.00 is charged for each additional transcript. No transcript will be issued to students who are financially indebted to the College until satisfactory arrangements have been made with the Comptroller.

Registration: Registration materials will be furnished to all accepted students.

Expenses:

Transportation: In order to assist students in obtaining transatlantic transportation at the most economical rates, Middlebury College will provide information on flights to Europe. Additional information (including the cost of any surface transportation in Europe) will be sent to all students accepted into the Schools.

Housing: Students in the Schools in France, Germany, Italy and Spain make their own arrangements for housing, although Middlebury College will provide assistance in helping students settle in the foreign city. In the case of the School in Russia, Middlebury College makes all arrangements for travel, room, and board. Costs vary from country to country and according to the kind of accommodation preferred (family, pension, dormitory, apartment), but a budget of approximately $4000 – $4500 should be anticipated to cover the cost of room, board, and personal expenses for nine months.

Financial Aid:

Graduate program: A limited number of National Direct Student Loans and Scholarship grants are awarded to qualified students. Selection of those eligible is based on demonstrated need. Awards will be made in conjunction with those for the required summer session.

Junior program: Financial assistance for the Junior program is available to Middlebury students only. Other juniors are advised to contact the Office of Financial Aid at their home institution.

Insurance: Medical insurance is required. A low cost policy is available through Middlebury College. An application form for this coverage will be included. with the August billing. For further details you may write directly to the Office of the Comptroller, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont 05753.

Transcripts: One official transcript will be issued without charge on written request to Office of Graduate Records, Old Chapel, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont 05753. A fee of $2.00 is charged for each additional transcript.
